THE WAR OVER COREA

Chinese Officials Develop a Mania for Spy Hunting.

TO REORGANIZE THE BLACK FLAGS.

Lin Yung Fi, the Noted Chief of Those Desperate Fighters, Will Lead Them to Battle Against Japan—Japanese Troops in Full Command at Seoul.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—A dispatch from Shanghai says that the Chinese there are suffering from a spy mania that has developed among Chinese officials. All vessels arriving in the Woo Sung river are boarded by Chinese naval officers and searched for spies and contraband of war. Two prominent Japanese have been arrested within the French concession on the charge of spying. They are still detained for trial.

The dispatch further states that a number of Englishmen and Scotchmen have been obliged to leave the arsenal at Wei-Hai-Wei, owing to the war. They had been fired at by the Chinese guards, and some of them would undoubtedly have been killed had it not been for the protection afforded them by Chinese officers.

It is added that on three successive nights Japanese torpedo boats forced the boom guarding the watering entrance to Wei-Hai-Wei. They either evaded or exterminated the torpedoes that had been laid by the Chinese, and effected an entrance to the port, the defenses of which had hitherto been supposed to be impregnable. The Japanese did not engage the forts, as it is said they were only in search of information as to the lines to be followed in the event of it being decided to make an attack in force upon the place.

Medical advices from China show that the Chinese government has prohibited the exportation of horses. Horses are regarded as contraband of war by Japan. One hundred and sixty thousand troops have been mobilized by Japan and the reserves have been called upon for service in Corea. Sickness prevails in both the Chinese and Japanese armies.

China has accepted the offer of Lai Yung Fi, the celebrated chief of the Black Flags in Tonquin, who is now a naval commander at Canton, to reorganize the Black Flags to fight Japan.

SEOUL WELL FORTIFIED.

Japanese Troops Have Full Command of Corea's Capital City.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—Admiral Skerrett who has just arrived from Yokohama, says the Japanese have about 8,000 soldiers at Seoul and that they have fortified the hills surrounding the city. They have complete command of the place. They have also seized all the Sampans and secured all the pilots at Chemulpo, so that the Chinese cannot effect a landing there. China's only way to get into Corea is to send troops down the peninsular from Manchuria. The admiral, while admitting that so far the Japanese had the best of the conflict, would not hazard an opinion as to the outcome of the war.

The new Japanese Minister to the United States, Mr. Kurino, was also a passenger for the East. He was taken in charge by Japanese officials as soon as he landed, and was driven to the Japanese legation. Mr. Kurino received a hearty welcome from the Japanese residents and the Japanese colony.

Corea's Fight for Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—The steamship Gaelic brings the following cablegram from Yokohama, dated August 18: "Advices from Corea state that the Japanese troops, after the king of Corea, refused the Japanese troops to Yashan, were the battle with the Chinese was to take place. Some of the Coreans fled when the fighting began, but the majority fought with the greatest bravery. This fact has high political significance, as showing that the king of Corea sides with Japan.

Efforts to Restore Peace.

ST PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—It is stated here that Russia and other powers continue to endeavor to restore peace between China and Japan.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 20.—Charles G. Fawkes, an advertising agent, was arrested here this week on a warrant sent from Syracuse, N. Y., charging him with grand larceny, and was released on bail. On Saturday Officer John C. Kratz, of Syracuse, N. Y., came here after Fawkes, armed with a requestion from Governor Flower. Kratz arrested Fawkes, and was himself arrested for making an illegal arrest in this state. The case against the officer was settled, but he was obliged to go back without his prisoner. Meantime Fawkes is at liberty.

CRAZED BY TYPHOID FEVER.

Thomas Hewitt Stabs His Wife and Children and Then Commits Suicide.

KEARNEY, N. J., Aug. 20.—Thomas Hewitt, a moulder, made an attempt yesterday to kill his wife and four children. He wounded them all, but not fatally, and then sprang from a window and ended his life. Hewett has been suffering for some time past from typhoid malaria. Early in the morning he entered the room where his wife and children were lying. He had a sharp knife, with which he gashed his throat. Mrs. Hewett was awakened by her husband's exclamation when he drew the knife across his neck. She screamed at the sight he presented and sprang toward him. He raised the knife and exclaimed: "Julia, our time has come."

With this he pushed the woman aside and sprang to the bed. He made a vicious lunge with the knife at the eldest child, a boy of 7 years. He appears to have been so excited that he could not see, for the knife buried itself in the bedding between the child and another, two years younger. He drew it out and struck again and again at the children, but they had been awakened by a scream from the mother, and he inflicted no serious injury, although all of the four were more or less cut.

Mrs. Hewitt threw herself between her insane husband and the children. In endeavoring to catch his arm she received a bad stab wound, the point entering the flesh near the elbow. The downward stroke of the knife continued and tore the arm to the wrist. Mr. Hewitt then sprang through the window, carrying the sash and wire netting with him. He landed on his head and fractured his skull, dying an hour later.

Fire at Portugal's Royal Palace.

LISBON, Aug. 20.—The negligence of servants in leaving a lighted brazier unattended caused a fire to start in the servant's wing of the palace occupied by the dowager queen, Maria Pia at Cintra, about fourteen miles from Lisbon yesterday. The flames spread rapidly, and were only extinguished with great difficulty after assistance had been summoned from Lisbon. The great height of the palace added to the difficulties met with by the firemen. Senor Costa a member of the chamber of deputies, and two firemen were seriously injured. The building sustained considerable damage, but its costly contents were saved.

Jones and McKee Still Defiant.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—At a conference between Governor Brown, Attorney General Poe and counsel for the 109 imprisoned Coxeyites it was agreed that the governor would pardon all hands excepting Christopher Columbus Jones and Marshal McKee, who will be held for the purpose of testing the right of the state to take the "army" from their encampment and imprisoning them without trial. Jones and McKee will be held because of their refusal to accept the pardon offered by the governor conditioned upon their leaving the state.

A Murderous Texas Train Robber.

LUFKIN, Tex., Aug. 20.—While an engine on the State road was running to the coaling camp, about eighteen miles from here, the engineer observed a pile of ties across the track. He reversed his engine and all on board jumped. Among the party was Dr Dreveny, of Rusk. As he neighted a masked man stepped from the brush and shot him dead. Holding the other men off with a pistol he robbed the body of the doctor, obtaining $45 and a gold watch and chain. The country is being scoured for the man.

Charged with Drowning His Child.

MONTGOMERY, Pa., Aug. 20.—An interesting trial is in progress here in which W. Burt Sebring, of Rush township, is charged with the murder of his child. The baby was born on May 28, last year, but his wife did not make the accusation against her husband until some months afterward. There was no one present at the time, and it is charged that Sebring drowned the child. The commonwealth has called upon several doctors to testify that it was drowned.

Killed by Her Drunken Husband.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 20.—At Tunnel Hill, a small mining town in the western part of Blair county, James McAvoy, a young miner, went home drunk and began quarreling with his wife. Not satisfied with abusing her he secured a revolver and fired four shots at her, all of which took effect, the woman dying almost instantly. McAvoy and his brother were arrested and locked up.

Mother and Children Blown to Eternity.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 20.—Saturday night four powder houses of the Speer Hardware company, located two miles from here, on the Poteau river, exploded. The powder houses are total wrecks. A small cabin near by, the home of Mrs. Cook, was blown to splinters. Mrs. Mrs. Cook, her daughter and an infant were hurled into eternity.

MISS GOLDMAN UNREPENTANT.

Imprisonment Has Not Cured the Rabid Female Anarchist.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A reception was given Emma Goldman last night at the Thalia theater which nearly three thousand people attended. The affair was generally tame, and the special force of detectives detailed to watch the proceedings had nothing to do.

Charles Wilfred Mowbray, the English anarchist, was also present. He preceded Emma Goldman by a speech in which he eulogized her heroism and self sacrifice. Speaking of the police, he remarked: "The police exist for boodle. They are here to protect thieves of so called society in plundering the poor worker."

When Emma Goldman came on the platform there was a great burst of applause. Her speech was chiefly devoted to a rancorous attack upon all who were concerned in her prosecution, conviction and imprisonment.

"Imagine the prosecution of a woman for talking on anarchy. 'Anarchy' was prosecuted, Oct. 5, 1893, in the court of general sessions. It was really the right of free speech that was prosecuted. This country is today seeking out of the old continent to help them get rid of anarchy. Who do they get to help them? Those hateful Irish and the detestable English."

Emma Goldman then launched into invective. She called Assistant District Attorney McIntyre a coward. Speaking of the judge before whom she was tried she said: "Judge Martine is not to be compared to Santo Hayseed or Henry, who were all assassins. I am sorry they believed in. I am with you once again under the old flag of anarchy and freedom," she concluded.

The speech was received with enthusiastic plaudits by the minority portion of the audience and the meeting soon after was brought to a close. Marie Louise, a French woman and ardent advocate of anarchy, presided at the meeting.

A WHOLESALE POISONER.

After Killing Three of Her Own Family, Mrs. Butler Commits Suicide.

HAMPTON, Mich., Aug. 20.—After taking the lives of her father, mother and husband by poison, and bringing Harry Whitlock, a hired man, to death's door, Mrs. Julian Butler, aged 45, who lives near this city, has ended her career of murder by committing suicide. Dr. Elias Smith, the family physician, is very ill from the effects of eating food at the woman's house.

Mrs. Butler's father had heart trouble, but died from cramps after several months' illness, during which time his hands and feet became numb and useless. The mother's death was also attributed to cramps and was unexpected.

Two and a half years ago the woman's husband, Charles Butler, was taken ill and died. During the visit of the physician he was invited to dine. Dr. Smith says he was invariably ill after the meals, but suspected nothing more than indigestion.

About July 1 Harry Whitlock, who had taken the farm on shares, boarding at Mrs. Butler's home, was taken ill. Dr. Smith then took away with him some of the food prepared, telling the woman she was suspected of having poisoned the man. The food was sent to Ann Arbor, where a chemical analysis showed the presence of strychnine and arsenic.

Meantime Mrs. Butler committed suicide by poison. Just before her death the woman practically admitted her guilt to Dr. Smith. Whitlock is still living, but his hands and feet are useless and his health is broken.

At the Mercy of Firebugs.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 20.—The officials of the fire department have decided that the city is practically at the mercy of unknown firebugs. During the past two weeks there have been twelve incendiary fires. Two lumber yards and a large barn were destroyed yesterday, and there is evidence that one person has set all the fires. The police believe that it is the work of James McGunigle, an insane firebug who was sent to the asylum after having set fire to the Union Congregational church. He escaped three months ago and has managed to elude the police ever since.

A California Wine Merchant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Several far seeking Californians have lately taken steps to form a wine syndicate, to control and regulate the price of the product of the California vineyards. There are nearly 200,000 acres of vines in California, and the value of the property and the cellars is estimated at nearly $80,000,000. For six or seven years past the vineyards have produced yearly about 2,000,000 gallons of wine in excess of the demand, and prices dropped till it was not profitable to pick grapes. The syndicate proposes to make the business profitable.

WAITING ON CLEVELAND

The Tariff Bill Alone Holds Congress in Session.

NOT A QUORUM IN THE SENATE.

Only Bills to Which There Is No Opposition Being Considered in the Upper Branch—The House Makes No Attempt to Transact Business.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The final action of the president on the tariff bill is the only thing that stands between the senate and final adjournment. It is the general opinion that, with the bill passed upon by the executive, adjournment could be arranged within a day's time. The last of the appropriation bills received the final consideration of the senate during the past week, and even without the passage of the Morphy resolution there would not have been much probability of any general legislation owing to the likelihood of there being no quorum. The last roll call on Saturday discovered only forty-five senators, two more than a quorum, in the chamber, and the largest number of the day was fifty-four. Several have left since, and the session today opened without the number requisite to do business in the face of objection.

It is probable, therefore, that the daily sessions from this time forward will be brief, and that only bills to which there is no opposition from any senator or over which there is no contest will be taken up. The Democratic managers hope to have the bill repealing the provision of the tariff bill exempting alcohol used in the arts and in the manufactures of medicinal preparations included in this list. There appears likelihood of opposition on the Republican side, and if there should be, this bill will necessarily go over until the next session. The Democratic members of the finance committee also hope to report the supplemental tariff bill during the week, but do not expect action on them. Probably considerable time will be spent in executive session in confirming nominations to which no one objects.

The house of representatives is ready to adjourn today. Its work has been completed, it is only awaiting the action of the senate and of the president. It is probable that it will adjourn from day to day until congress adjourns. It may be, however, that the time will be partly occupied by giving days to the several committees of the house to consider such business as they care to bring before the house. Today, under the rules, is suspension day, as are also the last six days of the session, but as a resolution for adjournment will not be passed until the president acts on the tariff bill the rule with reference to suspension days will not go into effect until the date of adjournment has been fixed by both houses.

Fighting Against the Draft.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Advices received from the Congo state show that further troubles have occurred with the natives arising from the enlistment of Portuguese Congo natives into the military service by Congo state officials. The natives were highly incensed at the summary manner in which their relatives and friends had been dragged into a service that was repugnant to them, and determined to avenge their wrongs. A strong native force was gathered and an attack was made upon Luba, a Congo state post. In the fighting that ensued two of the soldiers defending the post were killed and three were taken prisoners.

Accident to the Vigilant.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 20.—The race for the Wolverton cup, which was to have taken place between the Vigilant and Britannia on Saturday, did not come off, owing to an accident to the Vigilant. It was at first believed that the American yacht's centerboard had dropped out and went to the bottom, but it was afterward discovered that it had been jammed in the trunk. Lord Wolverton has withdrawn the cup he offered to the winning yacht and has decided to send it to the Royal Dorset club to be raced for by first class yachts at Weymouth on Friday.

A Jilted Lover's Revenge.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Twenty years ago in Sunbury a young man named Terrill fell in love with a pretty girl and they became engaged to be married. The day was set, but when it arrived the pretty girl without notice jilted her affianced and married a man named Lochart. A few weeks ago Terrill, who had never married, met his sweetheart, now a widow. He again courted her, the wedding day was set, but when the day arrived the bridegroom came not. It was evidently his method of getting even.

The Puzzle Solved.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the many modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising. No druggist is without it.

PASSENGER STEAMER WRECKED

Six Persons Lost Their Lives by the Foundering of the Upiekh.

ST PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—A dispatch from Rybinsk, an important commercial center situated on the right of the Volga river, states that a terrible storm passed over that city and the neighborhood on Friday last. The damage done to property was immense. The steamer Upiekh, plying on the River Schexna and the Volga, was caught by the storm on the former stream. There were a hundred passengers on the vessel, and they were thrown into a state of panic by the tremendous force of the wind, the furious downpour of rain, and the almost impenetrable darkness.

The captain, knowing that his vessel was in great danger, headed her for the beach, his intention being to run her ashore. Before this could be done, however, the vessel sprang a leak and began to founder. As she sank her decks were blown up by the air in her hold. Everybody on board of her was thrown into the water, there not having been time to lower the few small boats. Despite the fury of the storm, passing vessels which had heard the Upiekh's signals of distress stopped and managed to rescue everybody except the captain and five other persons. Nothing was seen of these six after the steamer foundered, and it is conjectured that they were drawn down by the suction of the sinking vessel. They were undoubtedly drowned.

Knights Treat Sovereign Harshly.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—District Assembly No. 1 of the Knight of Labor held a meeting last night, which is claimed to have resulted disastrously for Master Workman James R. Sovereign. The assembly has been the bone of contention between the Sovereign and anti-Sovereign factions for some time past, and last night's meeting was attended by Sovereign, General Secretary Hayes, T. B. Maguire and Henry R. Martin, of the executive board, in an attempt to settle the difficulty. The session was so stormy that Sovereign is said to have called in a police officer to clear the hall. Not succeeding in this, it is said that the opposition forcibly ejected Sovereign, while his followers took precipitous leave. Sovereign denies that he was forcibly ejected.

REPUBLICAN FIGURING.

Representative Cannon Discusses the Appropriations.

SAYS EXPENSES HAVE INCREASED

The Illinois Congressman Claims That the Only Reductions in the Appropriations Has Been in the Matter of Pensions, While Other Expenses Are Heavier.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Representative Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, the senior member of the present appropriations committee during the Fifty-first, or "Reed" congress was prepared a statement which he will submit to the house, setting forth a comparison from his standpoint of the appropriations for the present and the Fifty-first congress. It is captioned "Pension appropriations reduced $29,669,594; total of other appropriations increased."

Mr Cannon says: "Mr. Cleveland, by his estimates, asked congress to appropriate for the public service for the coming fiscal year, including permanent appropriations, $379,952,810, and congress has appropriated for such service $400,653,309. This in round numbers is $20,669,000 less than the president asked for the public service. A large part of this $20,000,000, however, will be appropriated next winter or will deficiencies. A comparative statement of appropriations made at this congress for the fiscal year ending June 30 next, with appropriations made at the first and second sessions of the Fifty-first congress shows that the appriations this year are greater by $27,269,858 than were those made by the first session of the Fifty-first.

The statement also shows that the appropriations made this year are $28,854,903 less than those made at the second session of the Fifty-second congress. This reduction is covered by the item for pensions alone. There was appropriated this year for pensions $29,099,304 less than was appropriated last year. It will be noticed, therefore, that the appropriations this year, excepting pensions, are greater than those made last year by $26,515. The total appropriations for the Fifty-first congress for two years were $985,417,183; those for the Fifty-second congress, two years, were $1,027,104,547.

Mr. Cannon then gives the statement issued by the treasury department on July 2, giving the expenditures and receipts of the government for the past year and those of the previous year.

Mr. Cannon's statement then continues: "This statement does not include the postal receipts or expenditures therefrom, and as they balance each other it is not material to state them here. It shows the receipts of the United States for the twelve months ending June 30, 1894, to have been $88,850,202 less than the receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893. This statement shows, also, that the expenditures for the twelve months ending June 30, 1894, were $16,884,595 less than for the twelve months ending June 30, 1893, but this same statement shows that the payment for pensions made for the year ending June 30, 1894, were $18,180,272 less than they were for the year ending June 30, 1893.

In other words, exclusive of pensions, President Cleveland, for his first full fiscal year, expended $1,295,677 more to carry on the government than was expended in the first fiscal year under Harrison.

There have been many increases in the salaries of civil officials, especially in the diplomatic and consular service.

The Revolution in Morocco.

TANGIER, Aug. 20.—The revolt among the Kabyles is spreading and is now general in the southern towns of Morocco. A body of the sultan's troops recently attacked the rebels outside of Mazagan, a seaport 120 miles southeast of Cape Spartel. A desperate conflict ensued, in which the Kabyles fought with the ferocity for which they are noted. The sultan's troops were finally put to flight after they had sustained very heavy losses. The troops retreated inside the walls of Mazagan, and the place is now besieged by the rebels.

"The meeting in the west gives opportunity for a large attendance from the west, and all reports point to a prosperous meeting."

Opposing the Eastern League.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The Pennsylvania State League of Baseball clubs held a special meeting in this city. The chief matter under discussion was the desertion of the Scranton and Allentown clubs to the Eastern League, and of plans for future protection. Secretary Diddlebock was instructed to represent the league before the national board, and to insist upon the strict enforcement of the national agreement. The delegates were all of the opinion that if this was done the Eastern League would be expelled.

A PROBLEM SOLVED.

PROGRESS MADE BY GERMANY IN MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Councilors Are Excellent Citizens and Serve Without Pay. Administration Put Into the Hands of Experts, Who Are Often Chosen For Life.

Municipal housekeeping as a science and an art evolved out of the conditions of life prevailing in the last half of this century can be observed to better advantage in Germany than in any other country. It is true that the German cities have been somewhat tardy in provisioning themselves with modern conveniences and improvements, but now having fairly entered upon the task they are accomplishing it in a more systematic, thorough and businesslike way than any other cities, whether in Europe, America or Australia.

To this work of modern improvement, especially in public appointments, the Germans seem to have brought more of the scientific spirit and method than any other people. Their habits of thoroughness in research and of patient, exhaustive treatment of any subject in hand have fully characterized their progress in the arts of civilized life. Above all, the Germans had already developed a system of public administration more economical and more infallibly effective than could have been found elsewhere, and they were prepared when the growth of their cities and the new demand for modern improvements made necessary a great increase in the number and variety of public functions to do in the best possible way whatever it was decided to undertake. So confident were they indeed in the efficiency of their administrative organization that they dared to assign to the municipalities spheres of action which elsewhere have been left to private effort and control.

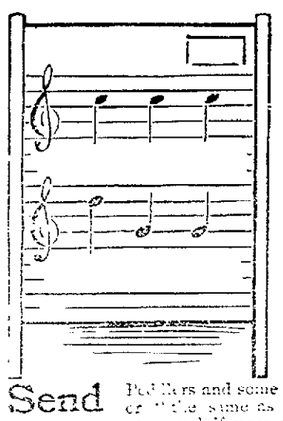
Municipal councilors in Germany are, as a rule, very excellent citizens. It is considered a high honor to be elected to the council. Membership is a title of dignity that merchants, professional men and scholars are usually eager to hold. No salaries are paid to the councilors, and a penalty is attached to refusal to serve if elected. The sentiment toward these positions is much the same in Germany as in Great Britain, though stronger with men of high education in German than in British towns. The re-election of good councilors term after term is common in both countries. It would be difficult to estimate fairly the influence of the class system in Prussia upon the character of city councils as regards their conservatism, intelligence and business ability. Undoubtedly the recent growth of the social democracy would have a sharper influence upon the city councils if the class system were abolished and if the municipal franchise were made identical with the simple manhood suffrage that exists for purposes of representation in the imperial legislature—the reichstag.

In addition to the magistracy and the council, there is in Berlin a body of about 75 so called "citizen deputies," who are selected by the council for their general fitness to serve as associates on committees charged with the oversight of various municipal interests, such as parks, schools, the care of the poor and the sanitary services. They have no authority to vote in the council, but they illustrate, at the center of administration, the excellent practice which is followed throughout the entire ramification of German city government, of enlisting the co-operation of unofficial citizens in managing the ordinary concerns of the community.

The burgomaster and magistrates are the most highly trained experts that a German city can secure. The burgomaster is an expert in the general art of municipal administration. Associated with him in the magisterial council are experts in law, experts in finance, experts in education to administer the schools, experts in engineering to oversee public works of every character, experts in public charity, experts in forestry and park management, experts in the technical and business management of water and gas supplies, and so on.

The analogy would not be perfect, but it would answer roughly to compare the governmental structure of a German city with that of a railway corporation, in which the board of directors, chosen by the stockholders, appoint a general superintendent or manager, a general passenger agent, a general freight agent, a chief legal officer, a chief engineer, a superintendent of motive power and other general officers and leave to these high salaried experts, drawn from the service of various other transportation companies, almost the entire management and operation of the road. The shareholders represent the voters of Berlin, let us say, the board of directors are the municipal council, the general superintendent is the chief burgomaster, and the general officers at the head of departments are the magistrates.

The magistratsrath, or staatrath, of a German city is, then, a body of distinguished and honored, highly paid, professional, expert employees and not a body of citizen representatives, although experienced members of the body of citizen representatives may be, and not infrequently are, promoted to membership in the magistratsrath. The professional civil service is a vastly greater and better established field of employment in Germany than in England or America, and it is particularly difficult for an American to appreciate its position and significance. The mayor of an American city is usually some well known citizen who is called temporarily from private life to occupy the most authoritative place in the corporation. The burgomaster of a German city is a civil servant—the permanent head of a permanent body of trained officials. The difference between the two is somewhat like that between our secretary of war and the general commanding the army.—Dr. Albert Shaw in Century.



Send it Back

Pedlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 413 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Song of the washboard.

Endless rubbing—tiresome, ruinous, back-breaking; wear and tear on things rubbed; wear and tear on temper and health; wear and tear on everything—even the washboard itself.

It's all done away with, if you use Pearline. There isn't any washboard; there isn't any rubbing on it; there's no wear and tear, and there's very little work. It's the only sensible way of washing—easy, economical, and, above all things, absolutely safe.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find no e until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

HOW PETE WAS CURED

WHAT HIS SHORT STAY IN LOUISIANA DID FOR HIM.

Bill Zach Thought Pete Raines Was Incurable and Sent Him Away. Plunk Took His Life In His Hand, So He Thought, but Pete Came Back Completely Changed.

"I never knew any one but Pete Raines that had ever been to Louisiana," said Shote Bondell of Gibson county, Tenn., "and I never heard him say a word against it, but from the way he acted when he came back to Tennessee from there I can't say that I gathered the idea that Louisiana held out many inducements for folks to go there and stay—that is, if the district Pete Raines went to was any fair sample of the way things strike visitors in Louisiana. That district was Tangipahoa parish. I saw Pete when he started for Tangipahoa parish, and I saw him just after he got back. That's why I can't get up and shout much when I hear folks brag about Louisiana, although Pete never said a word. There was good reason for that, though.

"Now, I s'pose that when I rise to remark that west Tennessee is the garden spot of all creation some folks'll snicker and maybe snort. But they wouldn't if they knew how 'shamed they'd be if they could ever strike luck enough to be turned loose in Gibson county once, especially around where Humboldt is. William Zachariah Raines lives there.

"One day, two years or so ago, Bill Zach said to Plunk—Plunk was a nigger that worked for Bill Zach, and a good one he was, too—'Plunk,' said Bill Zach, 'there ain't no kind o' use, we got to do something with Pete. The better I treat him the worse he acts. He won't plow, and he won't do nothing that ain't cussedness. Kicked the bay mare in the belly this morning, and she won't be worth a picayune for a week. Chased the old woman from the cowyard clear to the house and into the house and followed her half way up the kitchen stairs. There ain't any living with Pete any longer. Something's got to be done. Guess I'll send him 'long with you down into Louisiana.'

"'Golly!' said Plunk. 'Who'll fotch me back ag'in den? Pete he kill me sure! Dead nigger can't walk back from 'Weesyannah!'

"But Bill Zach had made up his mind, and the mule had to go with Plunk, dead nigger or no dead nigger.

"Guess I forgot to say before that Pete Raines was a mule, and a slick one he was too! Bill Zach raised him. He was 8 years old when all this happened, and I'll bet his ears were a foot and a half long. His tail wasn't as long as his ears, but it had a tuft on it like a cannon swab. Pete was fat as a seal, and his hide glistened like a darky's face in a green cornfield. But Pete wasn't reliable. He had a way of kicking and biting and fighting on the spur of the moment and without any provocation that made him practically the boss of things around Bill Zach's place, and he knew it. Bill Zach bought a place a couple of years ago down in Tangipahoa parish, La., to which he intended to send Plunk down to work, and so he thought he'd get rid of Pete in a merciful sort of way by sending him down there, too, although it might be that he'd get rid of Plunk at the same time.

"They shipped Pete on the railroad, and he went away tickled to death. He had it in his mind that he was going into a wider field to spread his cussedness in, and he fairly yelled with delight in his car when the train pulled out. It is 180 miles from Humboldt to Tangipahoa parish by rail. When they unloaded Pete down there, he came out smiling. He thought he had it in for that country and would make his mark. But he hadn't looked around much before dejection seemed to seize him. Plunk had never seen Pete that way, and he got scared. Plunk was more uneasy still when Pete went listlessly to the plow and dragged it all day without once lifting his ears or his heels.

"'I bet dis whole plantation 'gin a alligator what ain't kotched yit,' said Plunk, 'dat dey's a yarthquake wuckin in dat mool, an dat when it busts it'll h'ist dis nigger clean to de udder side ob Jurdan!'

"But it wasn't so. The mule got down in the dumps worse and worse every day, and after Pete had been in Louisiana a week Plunk went to the field after him one day, and there was no mule to be seen. Plunk hunted all over that country for three days, but couldn't find any trace of Pete. Then Plunk sent word to Bill Zach that the mule had gone off somewhere and died. And Bill Zach was glad. About three weeks after that Bill Zach was startled out of his sleep at half past 3 in the morning by a noise that awakened memories. He listened. The noise broke out again. It rattled the windows; it echoed among the hills; it wailed; it yooped; it heehawed.

"'Pete, by the living jumper!' yelled Bill Zach, jumping out of bed and hurrying to the door. A mule was leaning wearily against the front fence. He was thin and scraggy, his eyes were hollow and his ears half way to his knees, like a yaller hound's. When this mule saw Bill Zach at the door, he lifted up his voice again and actually wept. It was Pete, back from Louisiana. It is 500 miles from Tangipahoa parish to Humboldt by road, and so you may know what Pete must have thought of Louisiana to take his overburdened heart with him, so to speak, and pull out for Tennessee on the hoof. Pete was as slick as ever he was in a few days and started in to be pretty near as sassy and cussed as ever, but Bill Zach said one day to his wife when Pete was by:

"'I'm going to send Pete back to Tangipahoa parish again, Susan.'

"Pete dropped his ears and walked away, and ever since then he has been the best mule in the whole of Gibson county, and Bill Zach wouldn't take $1,000 for him."—New York Sun.

The Meeting on the Driving Park—Entries of Orange County Horses—A Successful Meeting Anticipated.

The entries for the 2:40 class of Orange county horses, to complete the list at the four days' racing under the auspices of the Middletown Fair Association, have been made, ten horses having been entered, as will be seen below:

NERVE AND A SHARP KNIFE.

An Unprecedented and Exquisitely Delicate Surgical Operation.

For the first time on record the surgeon's sharp pointed knife has penetrated to the pancreas and saved a man's life. The operation was recently performed at the Hahnemann hospital. Some great surgical work is performed at this hospital, but there is a strict understanding that operations shall not be reported to the lay world, and that the name of the subject shall never be given out. The subject this time was a well to do merchant, who paid the surgeon a very large sum for his marvelous skill.

There was a hard lump just below the patient's stomach. His stomach pained him, and his digestion was not good. The lump kept growing. His doctor made a cut in the abdomen and saw that the lump was beyond the reach of ordinary surgery. The merchant would probably die.

One of the surgeons at the Hahnemann hospital said he would like to make another slit in the abdomen, believing he might succeed in removing the lump. If he did, it might kill the merchant just the same, but if something was not done he would die anyway.

So the merchant took the last chance. A 6 inch slit was made, and the surgeon deftly ran his fingers down under the stomach and found a lump as large as his fist attached to the pancreas. The pancreas is about 5 inches long, an inch in thickness and 2 inches broad. From the fact that it digests all of the fats taken into the system the pancreas is a highly important organ of a human being.

When the cut arteries had been clamped and the physicians had sponged away the blood and then realized the enormous size of the object clinging to the pancreas like a toadstool to a log, they thought the case was hopeless. But the operating surgeon still kept up his nerve. It is not the place of an operating surgeon to lose his nerve. As he surveyed the situation he knew that if he cut away even the slightest segment of the pancreas the merchant was done for. Only by the very nicest calculation could the right cuts be made. He sponged off the blood and went to work. One and then another incision of the blade, and the cyst, filled with its horrible fetid matter, was removed, having been lopped neatly off just where it was joined to the pancreas.

In a few days the patient was on his feet again and said he felt like a new man. And now the physicians are wondering how many men have died from lumps in their stomachs who might have been saved and just how far the surgeon's knife may be effective again in an operation on the pancreas.—New York World.

A DUMMY ON THE TRACK.

An Agony of Horror For the Motorman, but Fun For the Boys.

The street urchins who spend their days round Eleventh and Twelfth streets and Third avenue, Brooklyn, looking for the mischief the father of all evil is supposed to supply for "idle hands to do," have found a new vacation amusement, and some of the motormen on the Third avenue trolley line are on the verge of nervous prostration.

The boys beg, borrow or steal old clothes until they have succeeded in getting together a very complete man's outfit. The next thing is a dummy, life size, which is well dressed, even to hat and shoes. A dozen or more conspirators, escorting this semblance of a man, stroll carelessly onto the track in front of an advancing car, talking busily.

The bell is rung loudly, the boys scatter, and the dummy falls across the track. Then the jokers discover their histrionic talent. They rush back, apparently in terror, and make futile efforts to get the man out of danger.

In the meantime the motorman, who is not the bloodthirsty wretch driving the car of Juggernaut that he is popularly supposed to be, is in an agony of horror. His hair fairly stands on end, and the veins stand out on his forehead as he uses all his muscle on the brake. If he succeeds in stopping before the car goes over the prostrate form, it is pulled off the track and sent flying into the car with wild shouts.

The feelings of the unfortunate man at the brake are too vehement for utterance when he discovers the trick. The scheme is very successful just about dark, and whichever way it goes it is great fun for the boys.—New York Times.

Duel Regulations In Russia.

New regulations have just been issued for the settlement of disputes between Russian officers. They provide for the appointment of a court of honor, consisting of officers, which will determine the question whether a duel is unavoidable or not. Should the decision be in the affirmative, any officer declining to accept the challenge will be dismissed from the service. A report upon duels between officers is in future to be made to the minister of war, who, in concert with the minister of justice, may appeal to the emperor to stop any legal proceedings resulting from the hostile encounter.—London Public Opinion.

The photographers of the Paris observatory have just finished for the Academy of Science the clearest view ever secured of the moon. A War Veteran's Suicide.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Captain E. W. Nicholas, of Indianapolis, the superintendent of the treasury department stables, committed suicide here yesterday afternoon by shooting himself. He was a veteran of the late war, during which he served under ex-President Harrison. The deceased was at the time of his appointment a captain on the police force at Indianapolis. He was about 65 years of age. Melancholia is supposed to be the cause for the deed.

Spread of Peach Yellows.

HAMBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—The several peach orchard of northern Berks are yielding a fair crop of fruit, and the owners find a ready market at remunerative prices, because of the almost general failure of the peach crop everywhere else. BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—Governor Brown began to rid Maryland of Coxey's Commonweal by sending yesterday 100 of them to Cincinnati on a special train. The others he will dispatch on special trains to their homes in the south and north. He went to the house of correction with pardons for all those from the west, and as soon as the stripes could be changed to old clothes the men were lined up and marched to the waiting train. They were glad to get out so easily, and said they had been received by Coxey.

Examiner Miller Not Murdered.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug 20.—The body of Bank Examiner Miller, who took his life in the Second National bank building, was taken to his late home in Mercer Saturday. The story that the examiner was murdered is not based on a solitary fact. The theory is groundless, and there is no doubt but that Miller, in a fit of temporary insanity brought on by worry and overwork, ended his career.

Burglars Cause a Fatal Fire.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 20.—The store and dwelling of D. S. Lynder, in this city, was destroyed by a fire yesterday morning through the carelessness of burglars who had looted the place. George Spindler, of the Consolidated Manufacturing company, in making his escape from the building fell through a skylight, receiving injuries from which he will probably die.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic electors of the State of New York are requested to unite in sending three alternate delegates from each Assembly District to a State Convention to be held at Saratoga Springs, on Tuesday, Sept 25th, 1894, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the ensuing general election, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention

Ordiary woolen shawls, such are worn by workingmen's wives, are taxed 150 per cent under the McKinley law; under the new tariff law they are taxed only 35 per cent.

As a result of conferences between the editors of some of the leading Democratic papers, a call has been issued for a convention of the Democratic editors of the State to be held at the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga, Sept 26th, the day after the State convention. The object sought to be accomplished by the convention is unity and concert of action in furtherance of Democratic principles and support of candidates.

The difference: In 1888 the Republican party entered into control of the Government pledged to change the tariff. It was expected to make duties lower; it made them higher than ever—a betrayal of trust. In 1892 the people dispossessed that party and put the Democratic party in control, because it had promised to change the tariff. There has been no Democratic betrayal of trust. The tariff has been changed,—changed from oppressively high duties to reasonably low duties. The spirit of the promise has been kept.

The Republicans of Wayne county, at their convention, Saturday, adopted resolutions endorsing Hon. Chas. T. Saxton as a candidate for Governor and elected delegates of his selection. Mr. Saxton has no hope of being nominated for Governor,—his "barl" isn't to be mentioned in the same breath with Morton's,—but will use the pole put in his hands by his Wayne county friends in the hope of being able to bring down the smaller persimmon of the nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Mrs. Mary Conners was recently appointed postmaster at Split Rock, a little village in Onondaga county, but when she sought to take possession of the office, the Republican hold-over, who had had the post office so long that he had come to look upon it as a personal perquisite, refused to surrender the stamps and other government property. The arrival of a post office inspector convinced the P. M. that the United States had some rights that even he was bound to respect.

There is not a tin mine in operation in the United States, for the good and sufficient reason that there is not in the United States a tin mine worth operating. Millions of dollars have been expended in finding this out. The duty put upon block tin by the McKinley bill, therefore, falls to the ground like a rotten apple, a useless thing. Under the new tariff, block tin is free of duty, as are tin ore and black oxide of tin. Here we have free raw materials for the promotion of American industry; and what is the effect? At no time since the commencement of the manufacture of American tin plate, which consists of the dipping of rolled sheet iron into liquid tin, has there been such promise of its becoming a permanent industry as now. Under the vitalizing touch of untaxed raw product, larger capital, stronger men are taking hold.

THEIR CRITICISM IS CHEEKY

From the Indianapolis Sentinel

The McKinley law gave the trust free raw material and a difference of half a cent per pound, with a bounty of two cents a pound to domestic producers in large quantities. The demonstrated result of this was to take $20,000,000 a year from the people for the benefit of the trust and $12,000,000 more for bounties, and practically put nothing into the Treasury. The present bill, with its concession of one-fifth of a cent a pound differential, will put $10,000,000 a year into the Treasury and save $12 000,000 in bounties. We do not propose to make any defence of the sugar schedule, but we deny the right of any Republican to criticise it. It is a relic of Republicanism which must go at the first opportunity.

CLARKSON, N. Y., Nov. 1892. — "I have used Gilmore's Aromatic Wine in my family, and for a debilitated system there is nothing to equal it in restoring vigor and strength, and for female weakness it stands without a rival. I most heartily recommend it to all who may be suffering from chronic malaria or biliousnese." —Rev. E. J. Whitney. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1.0 per bottle

MANCHESTER'S SHIP CANAL.

It Is Beginning to Loom Up as a Large Sized White Elephant.

It appears that the people of Manchester are beginning to find that their vaunted ship canal is something of an elephant on their hands. The chairman of the canal company has submitted to the municipal authorities a report which does not make them feel very good. His figures show that at the end of the current year the canal deficit will amount to £146,862, and unless something can be done about it, nobody knows exactly what, the city will have to meet the interest of the bonds in 1896, which means an increase of taxation of 1 shilling 7½ pence on the pound, or about 8 per cent.

It appears, too, that the canal company has entered into sundry obligations which the corporation knew nothing about and to meet which will make a tremendous drain even on the resources of the city rates. The canal will, moreover, have to keep dredges at work at a cost of about $50,000 a year, and more capital is called for to meet the extra expenses of dredging the canal.

The chairman advises the taxpayers to make no further pledges to the canal and announces that he proposes to resign the position of chairman, as he does not feel equal to the task of extricating the canal from its difficulties. This all makes a showing very different from the roseate reports of the canal which have been coming across the water.—New Orleans Picayune.

THAT UNREFILLABLE VIAL.

How the New Device Resists Attempts to Use It a Second Time.

What do you think of a bottle that can be filled only once—a vial that is as worthless after its original contents have been exhausted as a tomato can? A Boston inventor has devised such a bottle.

Some time ago a Park square pharmacist asked him to exercise his ingenuity on a bottle for the use of a proprietary fluid which could not be filled a second time, thus preventing the manufacturers of imitations from offering spurious preparations in such of the special bottles as they might be able to buy.

The vital principle of the new device is a cork float with a rubber pad at the back, located inside a glass cap in the neck, which closes instantly whenever an attempt is made to fill it. This float, once against the entrance, is held in place by the weight of a glass ball attached to a chain, having the play of half an inch.

The original contents find their way out through interstices in the cap to a groove in the neck of the bottle into which no knives or tools can be thrust. All parts of the invention are of glass except the chain and floats and will be blown in when the bottle is made.—Boston Transcript.

An Infant Phenomenon.

A real infant phenomenon keeps all the medical men and pedagogues of the good old town of Brunswick in a state of wonder and delight. The little son of a local butcher, a baby just 2 years old, can read with perfect ease anything written or printed in German or Latin characters. A few weeks ago three Brunswick doctors had the baby introduced to them at the house of one of the learned gentlemen. The first thing the little one did when brought into the consulting room was to stand on his toes at the table, reading out from the books that were lying about. When 18 months old, the baby liked books and newspapers better than lollipops and toys, and whatever the parents playfully told him he remembered, with the result that, at the age of 2 years, he reads with perfect ease.—Westminster Gazette.

The Baker's Bill

Tells of Greatly Increased Appetite.

"It affords me great pleasure to tell not only the condition of my present health but also that of my whole family. A friend who knew of my poor health advised me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla. After two bottles a great change in my health was noticed. I do not have that tired feeling, no pain in the stomach, especially after eating, and in fact I feel like a new person and hold some pleasure in life. Every member of my family is using Hood's Sarsaparilla and with beneficial results, if I may judge by my baker's bill each week.

The Delaware Declining

From the Newton Register.

The Delaware River, like many other streams, the flow of water is getting less year by year. The amount of water passing down the Delaware at the present time is only about one-third what it was sixty years ago. This is in consequence of the clearing of the forest lands at the head sources of the river for cultivation.

GREAT RUSH TO MIDWAY PARK.

The New Pleasure Resort Visited by Thousands of People Yesterday.

There was a great rush to Midway Park, yesterday. The early morning cars went down well filled, and in the afternoon the rush was so great that two extra cars were added to the service, making six in all, and even with these it was not easy to handle the throng of passengers, and many of the cars ran with more passengers standing up than occupied seats. In all about 4,000 passengers were carried.

There were no accidents or mishaps of any kind, a fact which speaks well for the care and caution exercised by the employes of the road.

Visitors at the park amused themselves by strolling about the grounds, boating on the Wallkill and watching the crowds. A game of ball was in progress on the meadows on this side of the kill, but it was very poor ball or else the crowd at the park did not approve of Sunday ball playing, for at no time did more than a score of spectators watch the game.

An accident to the rudder of the electric launch, which made it necessary to lay the boat up for repairs, was a disappointment to many who planned to enjoy a sail on the kill.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

A Boy Taken With a Fit While Bathing in the Wallkill.

A party of boys went swimming in the Wallkill at Midway Park, yesterday. One of the number was missed as they were about to go ashore and one of the boys stepped upon his body on the bottom of the river, and reaching down drew him into the boat and with the assistance of his young companions carried him ashore where he was rolled and rubbed, but for a long time could not be restored to consciousness.

It was known, however, that the boy was subject to fits, and as it was clearly evident that he was alive it was supposed that he was suddenly seized with a fit, and but for the accidental discovery of his companion would doubtless have drowned.

The boy was brought home on an electric car and has fully recovered from the effects of his misadventure.

Messrs. Knapp and Decker were highly pleased with their trip, and speak in terms of highest praise of Captain Rockwell and his command, whose guests they were while there.

ERIE'S WEEK DAY EXCURSION

Last Chance of the Season for a Cheap Trip to the City.

Next Thursday occurs the last week day excursion of the season over the Erie. On that day this line offers numerous attractions to the pleasure seeker. The New Yorks play the Louisville Club and the Brooklyns play the Cincinnati Club in the afternoon. Buffalo Bill's Wild West, at Ambrose Park, is another attraction, and a grand sail down the bay and out on the ocean to Sandy Hook and return, in time for the afternoon performance of the Wild West is another delightful way of spending the day. The fare is $1 to New York and return; $1.25 to Rockaway Beach and $1.50 to the Wild West, including the sail down the bay and admission to the show.

Fine Programme for To morrow's Races.

Every Middletowner should attend the races, to-morrow. It will be one of the best days. The 3:00 minute race, with a large list, will be full of surprises. The 2.30 race, in which Mr. Robert Lemon's fast and game young mare, Nora L., is entered, will be well contested, and the yearlings, in half-mile heats for the colt stakes, will make lots of fun. This will be the first yearling race ever trotted in Orange county.

Base Ball Notes.

—Tommy Murray accepted seven chances without an error at Paterson, yesterday, in the game against the St. Louis leaguers. The latter won, 4 to 3.

—The Cuban Giants defeated the Ironsides, at Newark, 5 to 1. Heckman and Moorehead played with the Ironsides.

Cars for the Midway Park Inclined Railway.

Two small cars for use on the inclined railway at Midway Park were received, this morning. They were formerly used on the Orange, Watsessing and Bloomfield route, at Orange, N J. The cars were consigned to Virgil Cox, who has the contract to operate the gravity road and the roller coaster.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Death of Mrs. Masters—At Asbury Park—Goshen People at Midway Park—Thursday's Game of Ball

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—Mrs. Hester Masters, mother of Mrs. Levi VanLeuven, died, this morning, aged seventy-eight years. She has made her home with her daughter for some time and it was there that she died.

—Miss Clara Reevs and Miss Cora Fuller are spending a vacation at Asbury Park.

—There were many Go henites in the big crowd at Midway Park, yesterday. They were all much pleased with what they saw there and are convinced that the Park will prove a most popular resort.

—The popular demand for the Trustees to grant the franchise to allow the Middletown-Goshen Traction Company to enter this village, was fully exemplified by the crowd of people from this village who were at Midway Park, yesterday. Many who owned carriages and horses drove, while the masses who could not afford that luxury were obliged to walk the long distance in the hot sun to enjoy the pleasures of an afternoon's outing. Among those whom your correspondent saw there, were many who were bitterly opposed to the road coming here. They drove, while the "plain" people simply walked, but they got there, just the same.

—The Gorhams, one of the leading colored clubs of New York, will play the Goshens at the Driving Park, Thursday, Aug 23rd. The Goshens will have the assistance of a couple of outside players to fill in the weak spots, so the game should be a good one.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring for a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 147. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle. 6 bottles for $5. Express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

MARKED ALIKE.

A Weird Story of Two Men Whose Singular Wounds Were the Same.

"I am not a believer in ghosts, reincarnations or the supernatural in any shape, but I had a singular experience some years ago which I have never been able to account for satisfactorily," said J. P. Lacroix of Montreal.

"I was second mate of a merchant ship in 1882. Among the crew was a tough customer named Lander, always in trouble. He had a frightful scar, extending from brow to chin, the result of a dock fight. He had a bullet wound which had taken away the lobe of his right ear, besides a peculiar protuberance like a wen on his forehead. I would take my oath there was not another man alive marked just like him. At the end of that voyage Lander killed his wife and cut his own throat. He severed the windpipe, but he recovered. The wound in his throat healed, but left a hole, which he had to cover with his hand when he spoke. He breathed through a silver tube. He was tried and convicted, and happening to be in port I was present at the hanging and saw the body buried.

"In 1890 I was on the gold coast of Africa. Ashore one day I came across a man bossing a gang of negro laborers. His form seemed strangely familiar, and I started with surprise when I saw him place his hand over his throat when giving some orders. Going closer, I saw the scar, the wen, the lobeless ear, the hole in the throat, the silver tube and every feature and characteristic of a man I saw hanged and buried. I got into conversation with him. He said his name was Danler. He was unable to tell how he came by the wound in his throat, ear and face. He said he must have had a long illness. He remembered being in a hospital, he said, but it was like a dream, and he had no recollection of his life before that.

"He said he remembered, while still ill, taking a long voyage—he didn't know where from—until he had landed where I met him. He told me my face looked like one he had seen in a dream, but he knew he had never seen me before. How do I account for it? I don't try to. I am only telling the facts. I don't know whether Danler was Lander come to life again or a reincarnation of him. Maybe Lander's neck was not broken and some scientific chap had been experimenting on him with a battery. All I know is that no two men could possibly be marked in exactly the same way. If it was Lander, he was greatly benefited by the change, as on inquiry I found that he bore a splendid reputation as a quiet, law abiding, peaceable citizen."—Chicago Times.

FAMILY HANDWRITING.

Experts Say All of a Generation Have the Same Characteristics.

Experts in handwriting say that all the people of a single generation write alike, and it is well known that most French handwriting has a strong family likeness to the eyes of others than Frenchmen. Nearly all Chinamen of the washhouse class look alike to superficial observers, and persons unaccustomed to colored persons find difficulty in distinguishing one from another.

It needs, however, a comparison of two or three family photograph albums of 20 or 30 years ago to convince men and women of today that there are striking superficial likenesses running through Americans of a given generation. All these old albums show curious resemblances, chiefly perhaps of dress and face, but sufficiently striking for one family album at first glance to be taken for another. As page after page of each is turned over there is the same succession of men, women and children in full figure, sitting, standing, posed in groups of two or three, with hats, without hats, draped in shawls, and manifestly dressed in their best for the occasion.

The photographers of those days chose, for reasons of their own, to make full length pictures, and as they were unusually small costume counted for a great deal and helped to intensify the general likeness running the whole generation.—Philadelphia Press.

Carnot and Jean Carries.

The death of Jean Carries, the sculptor, recalls an anecdote in which he and the late President Carnot were the principal actors. The artist's busts and figures at the Champ de Mars excited the admiration of all, and they were deservedly classed in the first rank. M. Carnot, when on his visit to the salon, noticed an old man, who seemed much moved on seeing him, standing before the works of art of the sculptor. Some one said to the president, after pointing out the artist: "Here is need for reparation, M. le President. Carries is one of our most skillful men of art, and he is not yet decorated." Forthwith M. Carnot detached from the buttonhole of one of the officers of the military household in the place of a cross of the chevalier a cross of an officer of the Legion of Honor and placed it himself on the breast of Jean Carries. The next day, in The Officiel, the artist was named a chevalier of the order.—London Figaro.

Stanford's Retort.

Once Senator Stanford was traveling through California in his private car. The train had stopped at a small town, and the senator was leisurely strolling back and forth on the platform at the depot. A baggageman was unloading trunks, and in doing so carelessly pitched one onto the platform, and it burst open. The senator looked at it and remarked, "Well, that's a shame." The baggageman impudently asked, "Do you own this trunk?" The answer came quickly, "No, young man, but I own this road."—Horseman.

It is said that Lord Campbell was often overbearing and irritable. A lawyer who had long struggled against the chief justice's criticisms finally folded up his brief and remarked, "I will retire, my lord, and no longer trespass on your lordship's patience."

ODDITIES OF SCOTCHMEN.

Some Delightful Peculiarities Pointed Out by an Excellent Authority.

Some delightful oddities of Scotch character are given in Wilmot Harrison's new book, says The Scottish American.

Professor Adam Ferguson, the author of "Roman History," at whose house Burns and Scott met for the first and only time, eschewed wine and animal food, "but huge masses of milk and vegetables disappeared before him. In addition, his temperature was regulated by Fahrenheit, and often, when sitting quite comfortably, he would start up and put his wife and daughters in commotion because his eye had fallen on the instrument and he was a degree too hot or too cold." Yet at the age of 79 he started for Italy with but a single companion to prepare for a new edition of his "Roman History," nor did he die till he had attained the age of 92.

Another "character" is Dr. Alexander Adam, rector of the high school and author of a work on Roman antiquities and a man of extraordinary industry. When at college, he lived on oatmeal and small beans, with an occasional penny loaf, in a lodging which cost him fourpence a week. In later life he devoted himself absolutely to the work of teaching. In addition to his classes in the high school he appears to have had for his private pupils some of the most eminent Scotchmen of his day.

Rev. Sir Henry Wellwood Moncreiff, a member of a Scottish family distinguished during several generations in connection both with church and state, appears to have given wonderful Sunday suppers. "This most admirable and somewhat old fashioned gentleman was one of those who always dined between sermons, probably without touching wine. He then walked back from his small house in the east end of Queen street to his church, with his hands, his little cocked hat, his tall cane and his cardinal air; preached, if it was his turn, a sensible, practical sermon, walked home in the same style, took tea about 5, spent some hours in his study, at 9 had family prayers, at which he was delighted to see the friends of his sons, after which the whole party sat down to roasted hares, goblets of wine and his powerful talk."

NOT A TRUE MURPHY.

He Had the Name and the Physique, but Lacked the Brogue.

A Boston scion of the great Celtic family of Murphy, while traveling in Ireland recently, came across a little village where the man who did not bear his patronymic was regarded as a curiosity. While wandering about this interesting hamlet he chanced to come upon a little tavern, and being athirst entered the taproom for beer. Be it here known that the traveler was considerably above the average in stature, and this was noticed by two old habitues sitting by the fire. One of these presently remarked to his companion, "Mike, that gintleman is taller than Jerry Murphy, Oi think." "Ah, now," replied the other through the 2 inch stem of a T. D., "he's not"—with a rising reflection on the end of the sentence. "Yis, he is," retorted the first, with conviction. "Can't Oi see Jerry's mark there on the dure?"

The traveler's attention was then called to a doorpost whereon was marked the stature of four men, all over 6 feet 4 inches in height. The tallest was Jerry Murphy, and his mark was 6 feet 5½ inches. Accepting this challenge, the traveler stepped up to the doorpost and had his height marked, and, lo! it was a full half inch above that of Jerry.

When he had written his name over his mark, for he noticed that the others were so designated, and that they were all Murphys, some one present called out, "He's a Murphy too!" But one of the old fellows by the fire would not have it so and replied: "Indade he's not. He hasn't got the brogue!"—Boston Transcript.

Enameling Cast Iron.

It is noted as a somewhat singular fact that there are not more than two processes for enameling cast iron, notwithstanding the amount of ingenious effort put forth in this direction. One of these is the hot process, in which the iron, heated to a vivid red, is powdered with a flux powder, borosilicate of lead distributed with a sieve, then heated, and when the flux fuses it is powdered afresh with glass more soluble, forming the glaze of the enamel, but this operation is attended with danger and is not adapted to large articles or for decoration. The second process, which meets the objections named, consists in dressing or coating the article first with magnetic oxide, then dipping it in borosilicates of lead, colored by metallic oxides, to which is added a little pipe clay, in order to give rather more body. The article thus covered cold, by dipping or with brushes, is put into the furnace, the enamel adhering and vitrifying at the usual furnace temperature used by enamelers, and by putting a coating of colored enamel with a brush on a first coat simply plain it is possible to make any decorations desired, which may be burnt in at one operation for outdoor vases, etc.—New York Sun.

Meat Water.

Every good cook is careful to dispose at once of the water in which meat has been washed. Only a very few hours are necessary to change it into a foul smelling liquid if the temperature is suitable. This change is due to a little plant called Bacterium termo. A drop of this putrid material under the microscope reveals many thousands of them, acting under a peculiar vibratile motion.

What we truly and earnestly aspire to be that in some sense we are. The mere aspiration, by changing the frame of the mind for the moment, realizes itself.—Mrs. Jameson.

The manuscripts of Fenelon show no changes. It is said there are not 10 erasures in a hundred pages.

A MATRIMONIAL CONSPIRACY.

Several Matchmaking Russian Mothers Detected In a Disgraceful Scheme.

Father John Segieff of Cronstadt is probably the most universally popular priest in the Russian Orthodox church. His prayers and benedictions are besought by the gloriously sick and nafer peace in nearly every government of European Russia, by letter and by telegraph, so popular is the public confidence in his piety and wisdom. Father John himself is a man of simple life, making no pretensions whatever to ecclesiastical sanctity, of modest habits and lavish to the last mite of his considerable income in relieving the necessitous, making no distinction of creed or race.

Not a little indignation has therefore been raised by the discovery in the government of Orel that the good native's reputation has for some time past been wickedly traded upon by a number of designing matrons who have unmarried and doubtless daughters to dispose of. These solicitous matrons, sometimes acting in concert, but in different localities, have fabricated letters of advice, purporting to be written by the worthy priest of Cronstadt, recommending particular matrimonial alliances between their daughters and certain pious young bachelor neighbors as being divinely ordained.

These spurious letters proved successful baits in very many instances, but eventually the maternal conspiracy was detected, and it is now probable that the more guilty of the intriguing mothers and matchmaking spinsters of Orel will have to do penance for their indiscretions in a conventual retreat before Father John's absolution is granted and the civil authorities are satisfied. —Odessa Cor. London News.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW LIBRARY.

The Most Perfect Structure of Its Kind In the World.

No such library as this new one of Uncle Sam's was ever planned before. You must imagine, to begin with, two iron bookcases, each 65 feet high, 112 feet long and 45 feet wide. They tower up through the building story on story in nine tiers. Each bookcase will hold 800,000 volumes. The metal framework is made gridiron fashion to permit the free passage of the atmosphere, for books need fresh air as much as human beings, else they rot. The floors are sheets of iron, and fire could do no damage worth mentioning, for books will not burn. They will only smolder under favorable circumstances.

The library has 1,800 windows. Those which admit light to the great book stacks above described are single sheets of fine plate glass. Looking from the interior courtyards, the walls inclosing the book stacks appear to be almost wholly of glass. Thus the title on the back of every volume may be easily read. The shelves already provided will accommodate 1,500,000 books—twice as many as are now in the library.

The building has been so constructed as to afford space for other stacks, which may be put up at any time, and will hold 2,700,000 volumes more. A million books in addition may be accommodated in the courtyards, and there is room for more besides. The librarian of congress a century hence will not find himself cramped in the least.—Washington Star.

PUNISHED FOR CURIOSITY.

A Learned Chinese Doctor Pays Dearly For a Little Innocent Sightseeing.

It is dangerous to gratify curiosity or to violate precedent at the Chinese imperial court. The empress dowager is a great stickler for etiquette. Recently she required the services of Dr. Li Tech'ang, vice president of the Imperial Academy of Physicians, at Peking, for one of the members of her suit at Eho Park palace. The learned doctor had never been inside these famous palace grounds, and his curiosity was fired to see the many curious objects of which he had heard wonderful tales. So he bribed a palace eunuch to show him around the grounds.

While the two were leisurely walking about and enjoying themselves the empress spied them. She at once dispatched servants to punish their temerity. The eunuch was seized, thrown on his face and accommodated with 50 blows with the bamboo on the calves of his fat legs. The doctor was docked three months' pay and received a severe reprimand, while his assistant was ordered never to venture again into the empress' presence.

The affair created a sensation because of the high position of the physician and of the humiliating punishment dealt out to him.—New York Sun.

Sale of the Thousand Islands.

The government is rejoicing over the sale of the Thousand islands, which, it appears, are going off cheap for cash. Over 300 have been sold for the paltry sum of $10,000, or, say, $125 each. The Ontario government was not given much time to consider their purchase. The Dominion government has had its own way. The "nigger in this woodpile" is yet to be discovered. Just what motive is behind the determination of the government to sell the islands in spite of public opinion is not evident. Those who remember all the Rykert and other timber land deals, and who look back over the 13 years' record of this most corrupt government, will look for revelations in connection with this matter some day.—Montreal Witness.

He Got the Russet Shoes.

Oliver Van Ostend, the New York electric expert, is very fond of driving and a day or so ago told his groom to have the mare he most favors for a spin in the park freshly shod. Being in a merry mood, he added, "If the blacksmith has any russet shoes, tell him to fit her out with that kind." What was his surprise to get a bill for a complete set of fine copper shoes, especially made to order; but, as the joke was on him, he paid up without protesting.—New York Mail and Express.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Office of the Secretary of State,

ALBANY, AUGUST 6, 1894.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seven chapter six hundred and eighty, Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people of the said State, for the purpose of voting thereon at the next general election in this State, to be held on the sixth day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-four.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Proposing amendment to article six of the Constitution of this State in relation to County Judges and Court of Sessions in the county of Kings.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Whereas, At the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed in the Senate and Assembly, viz:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That article six of the Constitution of this state be amended by adding thereto the following section:

"§ 32. There shall be in the county of Kings two county judges, each of whose term of office shall be six years. The county judge in office at the adoption of this amendment shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected. The additional county judge shall be elected at the general election next after the adoption of this amendment, and his term of office shall begin on the first day of January thereafter. When the official term of any county judge of said county will expire by the effluxion of time or the disability of age, the successor of such judge shall be chosen at the preceding general election. Vacancies otherwise occuring in said offices shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies in the Supreme Court. The salary of said county judge shall be as now established by law for county judge in said county. Their powers and jurisdiction shall be co-ordinate and co-equal. One or more parts of the county court may be held in said county. The court of sessions in the county of Kings is continued with the powers and jurisdiction it now possesses, and with such additional powers and jurisdiction as may be conferred by the Legislature; it must be held by a county judge of the county, and may hold one or more parts."

And whereas, The said proposed amendment was agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses of the said Legislature, entered on the journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the then next general election of senators.

And, whereas, Such election has taken place and said proposed amendment was duly published for three months previous to the time of making such choice, in pursuance of the provisions of article thirteen of the Constitution; therefore,

SHOTS HERE AND THERE.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

An Aged Widow's Matrimonial Venture —A Jerseyman's Owlery—Machinery as a Labor Saver.

The marriage at New Rochelle, last week, of Mrs. Adele A. Ronalds, a wealthy widow not less than seventy years old, and Charles Franklyn Regild, an actor of twenty-eight or thirty, is one of those ill-assorted unions that has set society talking. The venerable bride's first husband died over twenty years ago, and so many years had passed without her showing any wish to lay aside her widow's weeds that her marriage to the youngster who has won the love of her old age is a great surprise, and a painful shock to those who but for the appearance of Mr. Regild in the role of husband would have been her heirs-at-law.

A New Jersey man has hit upon a very novel and quite profitable business, the raising of owls. He is a taxidermist, who owns a place near Chatham, which is unusually well wooded. Years ago, just for the sake of their company, he sought to attract owls to his domain by putting in the crotches of trees sections of hollow logs, closed at the ends and provided with convenient holes through which the birds could enter. Owls like that sort of thing, and it was not many years before the place abounded in owls. Then it occurred to the taxidermist that he might as well make the owls pay for the accommodations furnished them, and he began to take the fledglings from the nests, raise them by hand, and when they had attained their full growth, kill, stuff and mount them. There is always a demand for stuffed owls and at good prices, so that this owl loving taxidermist is making a snug income out of his "owlery."

A well known farmer, residing near Winterton, was almost overcome by surprise Sunday morning, by finding that his hired man was out in the field cutting brush. The over zealous employe was called to the house and was knocked silly when told that it was Sunday and that he had better give the brush a rest. This incident has probably no parallel in the annals of hired help in this section, for it is only once in a century that a farm hand takes so much interest in his work as to forget the day of rest.

My attention was called, the other day, to a pair of shoes, marked "only one dollar," which were displayed in front of a North street shoe store. They were not finished in the very best style, but they were not bad looking shoes and seemed to be made of a passable article of leather. Of course the shoes were machine made throughout, hand labor on any part of them would have been out of the question at the price for which they are offered, and it is of interest to note as showing how machinery cheapens the cost of production, that while these shoes,—uppers, soles and the cost of putting them together were worth but a dollar, Middletown shoemakers charge and have to charge $1 and $1.50 for half-soling and re-heeling.

ARRESTED FOR CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

The Shocking Condition of a Pair of Canal Mules.

Dr. J. J. Mills, of Port Jervis, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on Saturday, caused the arrest of Thomas Moran, the captain, and Harry Dardis, the driver of a canal boat which was drawn by a pair of mules that were literally covered with sores made by the chafing of the harness.

The men belong in Honesdale but are employed by Andrew O'Boyle of Bullville, the owner of the boat, who has been notified of the arrest.

One of the mules is in such a condition that it will be necessary to kill it.

THE BICYCLE ORDINANCE.

More Honored in the Breach Than the Observance.

There is but little use of an ordinance in Middletown. The ordinance against fast driving has never been enforced, although it was passed years ago.

The recent ordinance requiring the use of a bell on bicycles at all times and a lamp at night is violated by the owners of one-third of the wheels in this city. Saturday evening a child was knocked down on West Main street by a wheelman, who turned the corner without light or bell to announce his coming.

Trolley Accidents in Newburgh.

A trolley car in Newburgh, frightened a horse driven by Mrs. Owen, yesterday, and it ran away and threw her out of her wagon, injuring her. Another trolley car there struck and demolished a milk wagon driven by John Donohue, of Coldenham, injuring him seriously.

Honest.

In these days of adulteration and fraud, in all branches of business and results, it is pleasing to know that there is one medicine prepared which is strictly pure. Such a medicine is Hop Bitters in curing scrofula; you can depend on them every time. W. B. Everts, A. M., Charleston S. C.

AT CAMP TAKIMAZIE.

Middletowners in Pleasant Quarters at Duck Harbor Lake, Pa.

Letters received from the Middletown party who went, Thursday, to camp at Duck Harbor, (Lookout post office,) Wayne county, Pa., announce their arrival there after a four hours' drive from the railroad, over a road that is a terror. The lake is, however, described as a beauty and camp life is said to be thoroughly enjoyable.

This camping party does things up in style and every camper is required to write his letters on the camp letterhead, which is as follows:

CAMP TAKIMAZIE.
Annual encampment of Wild Buck Indians.

Man Afraid of His Feet .....Adams
Man Shy of the Soap.....Fay
Heap Talker.....Hornbeck
Sleep in His Boots.....Buckley
Man Without a Squaw.....Rogers

DEAR READER:—If you but knew the di-advantages under which this letter is written, and that a kind word from civilization might be the means of raising these unenlightened savages from the depths of their ignorant and lazy life to a sense of the higher and ennobling influences of the outside world, we know "our man" would bring us an immediate reply. Your hearty co-operation is earnestly solicited in this grand and glorious work.

W. J. ADAMS,
C. B. BUCKLEY,
C. G. FAY,
A. J. HORNBECK,
FRED S. ROGERS.
Com.

For the benefit of those not up in Indian dialect it may be explained that "Camp Takimazie" is pure "Wild Buck" for Camp Take-'em-easy.

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR.

An Unusually Busy Morning in the Recorder's Court.

—The case of yard master Norman Rose, for alleged blocking of the East Main street crossing, was adjourned until Monday, August 27th, at 2 o'clock.

—A farm hand paid three dollars for intoxication, and a young man who pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct, was fined $5 or ten days. He was given until Wednesday to raise the amount of the fine.

—Amanda Anderson, colored, was arrested about a week ago, charged with disorderly conduct, and her case was adjourned for ten days to allow her an opportunity to get out of town. Saturday night the police were informed that a rumpus was in progress in her house on Benjamin street, and Amanda spent yesterday in the lock-up. She was given until to-morrow afternoon to get out of town.

—Two young men arrested for disorderly conduct, deposited ten dollars with Captain Grier, yesterday, for their appearance this morning. They failed to appear and the bail was forfeited.

—An Italian woman residing on Wisner avenue, who charged a young meat peddler with having kept the change of a five dollar bill which she gave him in payment for meat, appeared in court, this morning, with an array of witnesses. The Recorder took the testimony and a warrant will be issued. The young man denies the charge and will contest the matter to the end.

UP THE MIDLAND.

The Fish Hatchery—A Trip to Midway Park—Preparing for the Soldiers' Reunion.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Every reader of this paper for the past fifteen years, knows how long and earnestly I have pleaded for a fish hatchery at some point on the O. and W. Well, we have it, but perhaps I had better not say any more at present. There is a rich layout in this column in store for the New York State Fish Commissioners, if they don't show a little more gumption than they have done for some time past, and that soon. They have monkeyed with this Sullivan county hatchery and the public money long enough.

—Being in Middletown the other evening, and time hanging heavily, I took a trip to Midway Park. Middletown may or may not have a good thing in its electric railroad, but the company who built it certainly has, and I could not but wish that I owned a couple of thousand dollars of the stock. On the trip down, as we rushed past farm houses and through forests, at the rate of perhaps twenty miles an hour, it reminded me of the Chinaman's definition of an electric car: "No hossey, no muley. No pulley, no pushey; runney like hellee, allee samee." The trip is one to be long remembered.

—Morgans Post, of Rockland, is making great efforts to have the coming reunion a success. The circus held at Liberty on the same day, will no doubt keep a great many away. Morgans Post always has everything up to time and as it will not have the reunion again in some time, its friends should see to it that it has a rousing gathering Aug. 30th. Excursion trains both ways.

Ontario and Western Clerks Play Ball.

A team of base ball players from the O. & W. offices in New York visited this city, Saturday afternoon, and played a match game on the Hospital grounds with the Ontarios of this city. The visitors were clearly outclassed by the home players, who won in the easiest possible manner by a score of 21 to 11.
